Preparing for Sunday . . .

On a typical Sunday we have two worship services and several Sunday School classes. It is quite easy to attend one of the worship services each week and never see or get to know some of the folks who regularly attend the other service. Both of our worship services are vital and serve important purposes, but it is good for us to come together once in a while as a Family of Faith to fellowship and worship together.

Our Fifth Sunday Fellowships this year are an excellent opportunity to connect to God and one another and strengthen our identity as a people of God. At this week's Fifth Sunday Fellowship we will enjoy inspiring music and reflections on Psalm 27. The writer of the psalm wants us to trust that while faith in God does not spare us from pain and difficulty it does empower us to be people of courage and hope. We cannot follow Jesus and expect to live easy lives. We can however, find our way by opening ourselves to being filled with the Spirit and trusting that God is always with us! Please join us this Sunday as we hear the promises of Psalm 27 and celebrate our new life in Christ with the Lord's Supper.
